RESIDENCIES

Everwood Farmstead Foundation's Artist Retreat is designed for the professional artist who needs a nurturing space in a natural setting to advance a creative project in solitude.

Applicants must exhibit professional standing in their field; both mature and emerging artists of promise are welcome to apply. Since each artist occupies the house by him/herself, only those individuals who are comfortable living and working in solitude are encouraged to apply. For artists seeking a communal residency experience, Everwood may not be the right place.

Final awards of the residencies are at the discretion of Everwood Farmstead Foundation. Residency awards are made by a panel of Everwood board members and professional peers. In some instances, artists may be invited directly to participate. Previous recipients of the Artist Retreat may re-apply two years after the completion of their last retreat. Since the Artist Retreat is based on a rotating jury process, being chosen as a resident one year does not automatically guarantee selection in another year. There is no requirement from the artists after the retreat to demonstrate progress or contribute to the Foundation.
